I'll usually do very similar things: twitter, google reader (most likely), and tidy up my desk a bit. Sometimes I'll try and clear up my inbox as well, sorting and replying to anything that hasn't been dealt with yet.

The hard part is not doing all these things when I really don't have any spare time, and should be working!

I'll read a few pages in whatever book I'm reading, knock out an email or two, read a couple of articles on Google Reader, or review my todo lists on Remember The Milk.

I find Google Reader immensely helpful. I tried converting over and use Twitter for my news and blog updates but it didn't seem to work as well as I hoped. Google Reader serves as the main source of information.
